

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR USE OF WOLF LAKE

Wolf Lake is owned and maintained by the Old Ranch Metropolitan District (“ORMD”). These Rules and Regulations may be amended at any time by the ORMD with or without notice.

ORMD may adopt Rules and Regulations in addition to those stated herein and may post signs and other requirements as necessary.

ORMD will manage Wolf Lake for the primary purpose of a non-potable water storage facility for irrigation within the ORMD. ORMD maintains sole discretion regarding water levels and all management provisions and may amend, change or eliminate the recreational access and use in order to maintain and preserve the primary use of Wolf Lakes as a non-potable irrigation storage facility. The use of Wolf Lake by the public is a special privilege granted by ORMD, on its property. There are no express or implied property rights, or easement/license interests for access conveyed to the public, recreational users or those who currently own property (“Residents”) within Wolf Ranch. Since the primary purpose of Wolf Lake is to serve as a non-potable water storage and irrigation water source, any actions to endanger that use, could result in the immediate cancelation of recreational use of Wolf Lake.

The public is requested to be a good steward of the Lake so that the community does not lose the opportunity to enjoy the recreational use of the Lake.

Lake use and amenities are at your own risk. There are no lifeguards or emergency services present.
